THE PRACE CONVESTION AT BRUSSELS.—The British delegates, amounting to 150 gentlemen, from various parts of England, Scotland, Wales, sailed from Blackwall on board the Giraffe steam-packet, on Tuesday week, and arrived in Brussels at about half-past ten on Wednesday morning. A number of gentlemen from England had gone over to Brussels several days before to make the necessary preparatory arrangements for the congress. The first sitting was held at the Salle de la Societe de la Grande Harmoie, on Wednesday, with great splendour and taste. All around the hall were hung the banners of Holland, England, Germany, France, the United States, and Young Italy. M. Visschers, as chairman of the provisional committee, occupied the president's chair, assisted by MM. Bourson and Lehardy de Beaulieu, as secretaries. M. Scoble read a list of the English and American delegates, and announced the following members of the British parliament, though unable personally to attend, had expressed their cordial concurrence in the object of the congress: Joseph Brotherton, Lawrence Heywood, Win. and Dr. Bowring. M. Visschere was nominated president of the congress, and the following gentlemen vice-presidents:—W. Ewart, Esq., M. P., for England; M. Francisque Bouvet, member of the French National Assembly, for France; Mr. Elihu Burritt for America; and M. Suringar, for Holland. The secretaries were MM. Bourson and Lehardy de Beaulieu shortest notice.

'n the course of the sittings, which occupied close on three days, resolutions were adopted having for their object the permanent enjoyment of peace all over the world-these passed with but two dissentients, and were as follows:-

"That an appeal to arms for the purpose of settling disputes among the nations, is a usage condemned alike by reason, humanity, and religion; and that it is the duty of the civilized world to adopt immediate measures to secure its
